21,739 Die Of Cancer

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Cancer Society said yesterday stomach cancer and cancer of the intestines caused more deaths in 1957 than did lung cancer.

The society said 21,739 persons died from the disease during 1957. Stomach cancer caused 2,885 deaths, intestine cancer 2,558 and lung and bronchus cancer combined 2,138.

'Four-Cent' Salary

Wicks Takes Lashing

CCF members gave Labor Minister Lyle Wicks a tongue-lashing in the legislature yesterday and suggested his salary should be "four cents."

The outbursts came during debate on the estimates for his department, including his own pay.

John Squire (CCF, Alberni) flayed Mr. Wicks for "inconsistencies" which, he said, were shown by the labor legislation introduced this session.

"He says things are good (on the B.C. labor front)—so we are going to bring in regulations to restrict it," Mr. Squire said.

CUT IN PRICE

Mr. Squire accused the minister of saying that when there is a surplus of labor there should be a consequent reduction in the price of labor.

"Capital takes unto itself all rights and the only rights it has lost are the rights that labor has taken from it," he said.

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook), at times almost shouting, told Mr. Wicks he had a position to uphold.

"You have a duty to this House and the members who come here once a year, and this is the only time we are able to ask you questions," he said. "At least the minister should have made a statement answering the statements made by the minister of public works . . ."

The reference was to Mr. Chant's criticism of union leaders.

"Some of the ordinary backbenchers had the courage to get up and dissociate themselves, but not the minister of labor. He didn't even have the courage the ordinary backbenchers had," Mr. Nimsick said.

Rae Eddie (CCF, New Westminster) said labor-management trouble today could have been avoided if Labor Minister Wicks had given leadership.

"Much of the trouble between labor and management could have been avoided if the minister had done the job for which he was elected, and given leadership in the crisis," Mr. Eddie added.

INDUSTRY FUNDS

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) charged the provincial government had introduced restrictive labor legislation because the Social Credit party obtains its campaign funds from industry.

He said it was "the only reason the government is jumping into the labor-management field."

Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) said he was wondering how Mr. Wicks could justify silence as a policy.

"The man does not know how to defend his own department," Mr. Dowding baited. "He does not know how to defend his own figures. All he knows is silence."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan suggested that Mr. Wicks' salary should be only four cents.

"He hasn't given us five cents worth of information," he said. "And that in time of inflation."

After about 55 minutes of criticism, Mr. Wicks rose and described the tirade as "the same old record that we have heard over the last six years."
